STATEMENT OF COMMISSIONER COPPS IN RESPONSE TO SUPREME COURT DECISION IN BRAND X INTERNET SERVICES

Washington, D.C.—FCC Commissioner Michael J. Copps reacted to today’s Supreme Court ruling in Brand X Internet Services:

“We really have our work cut out for us now. In the wake of this decision, the FCC confronts the challenge of protecting consumers, maintaining universal service and ensuring public safety in uncertain legal terrain. Today’s decision makes the climb much steeper. But this country just has to find ways to promote innovation, enhance competition, protect the openness of the Internet, and return the United States to a position of leadership in broadband penetration. The Commission needs to think anew and act anew to meet these challenges, and I look forward to working with my colleagues to do just that.”
